

WHAT IS A WEEKEND WALKABOUT?

Our Weekend Walkabout is a challenge for you to find living things with the help of iNaturalist, a joint project of the California Academy of Sciences and National Geographic. Try to find as many different living species as you can!

We're doing several Weekend Walkabouts in May. It goes from 3:00 pm on Friday to 5:00 pm on Sunday, so anything you find during that time can be added to our "Cedar Run's Weekend Walkabout" Projects.

HOW DO I PARTICIPATE?

You can submit photos right from your phone with the iNaturalist app for Android and iPhone. Join by searching "Cedar Run's Weekend Walkabout" under the Projects tab and tapping "Join." Then you'll be able to add observations to our project when you make them!

You can also add your photos later from your computer by logging in to iNaturalist.org and uploading your observations. Start typing in "Cedar Run's Weekend Walkabout" and our project should show up. Be sure all the pictures were taken this weekend, or the project won't show up in the project list!

HOW DO I KNOW WHAT I FOUND?

You don't have to! iNaturalist is a community of naturalists and ecologists that are just waiting to help you identify your finds!
